IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE NORTHERN MARIANA ISLANDS

REYNALDO ATRERO MANILA,

Plaintiff,

CNMI DEPARTMENT OF
CORRECTIONS, ROBERT GUERRERO,
JOSE K. PANGELINAN, and GEORGIA
M. CABRERA,

Defendants.

Case No.: 18-cv-00003

ORDER:

- (1) GRANTING CNMI’S MOTION TO CORRECT MISJOINDER AND MOTION TO DISMISS; AND
- (2) GRANTING DEFENDANT CABRERA’S MOTION FOR A MORE DEFINITE STATEMENT

I. INTRODUCTION

Before the Court is the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands’ Motion to Correct Misjoinder Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 21 and Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(1), (“MTD,” ECF No. 15), and Defendant Georgia M. Cabrera’s Motion for a More Definite Statement (ECF No. 13). For the reasons stated herein, the Motion to Correct Misjoinder and Motion for a More Definite Statement are granted. The Motion to Dismiss is also granted, although not on grounds of sovereign immunity, as the Commonwealth urges, but because the Commonwealth is not a “person” within the meaning of 42 U.S.C. § 1983.

II. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

In his Amended Complaint (Apr. 2, 2018, ECF No. 5), pro se plaintiff Reynaldo Manila, an inmate in the CNMI Department of Corrections (“DOC”), alleges that DOC officers unreasonably delayed in sending him off-island for eye surgery – first for retinal detachment of his left eye, then for

1 cataracts in his right eye. (Am. Compl. at 3–4.) In September 2016 Manila was told that Acting 2 Commissioner Georgia Cabrera was aware of his condition but refused to approve the surgery because 3 his condition was not life-threatening. (Id. at 4–5.) He alleges that while on work assignments Cabrera
4 harassed him and wrongly disciplined him. (Id. at 6.) Even after a Saipan eye doctor for a third time
5 urged cataract surgery in July 2017, Cabrera refused. (Id. at 6–7.) When Commissioner Vince Attao
6 approved the surgery in August 2017, Cabrera disagreed. (Id. at 7.) In October 2017, Cabrera refused 7 to issue Manila extra toilet paper, which he needed to wipe his eye. (Id. at 8.) In November 2017, he 8 grieved mistreatment by Cabrera to Commissioner Attao. (Id.) In January 2018, Manila had eye 9 surgery in Guam, performed by a doctor at Pacific Retinal. (Id. at 9.) Subsequent medical reports 10 indicated that the overall prognosis for his vision was only slight improvement. (Id. at 10.) Manila 11 complains that the delays in treatment caused by Cabrera and other DOC officials may result in his 12 permanent blindness and have caused him prolonged pain and suffering. (Id. at 10–11.) He prays for 13 “general, consequential and compensatory damages” in an unspecified amount. (Id. at 11.)
14

15 III. PROCEDURAL POSTURE

16 Soon after the Commonwealth and Defendant Cabrera filed their motions on April 27, 2018, 17 Manila requested that the Court appoint counsel to represent him (May 15, 2018, ECF No. 19), and 18 the Court granted his request (Order, June 4, 2018, ECF No. 20). An appointment was made, and after 19 several extensions of time stipulated to by counsel for all parties, appointed counsel moved to 20 withdraw (Oct. 5, 2018, ECF No. 30). After a hearing, the Court granted the motion from the bench, 21 denied Manila’s oral request to appoint another attorney, and ordered that once Manila filed a written 22 response the pending motions would be taken under advisement without oral argument, pursuant to 23
24

1 Local Rule 7.1(a)(2) (Minute Entry, Oct. 11, 2018, ECF No. 31).

2 On November 13, 2018, the Court received Manila's Response to all the motions. (Response 3 at 1, ECF No. 32.) Neither the CNMI nor Defendant Cabrera filed a reply.

4 IV. LEGAL STANDARDS

5 Under Rule 12(b)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, a defendant may move to dismiss 6 a claim for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. Rule 12(b)(1) motions are either facial or factual. Safe 7 Air for Everyone v. Meyer, 373 F.3d 1035, 1039 (9th Cir. 2004). A facial attack does not challenge the 8 veracity of the plaintiff's allegations, but instead asserts that they "are insufficient on their face to 9 invoke federal jurisdiction." Id. "The district court resolves a facial attack as it would a motion to 10 dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6): Accepting the plaintiff's allegations as true and drawing all reasonable 11 inferences in the plaintiff's favor, the court determines whether the allegations are sufficient as a legal 12 matter to invoke the court's jurisdiction." Leite v. Crane Co., 749 F.3d 1117, 1121 (9th Cir. 2014)
13 (citing Pride v. Correa, 719 F.3d 1130, 1133 (9th Cir. 2013)). Conversely, a defendant bringing a 14 factual attack disputes the truthfulness of allegations that would otherwise invoke federal jurisdiction.
15 Safe Air for Everyone, 373 F.3d at 1039. In factual attacks, the district court may review evidence 16 beyond the complaint, and need not presume the truthfulness of the plaintiff's allegations. Id. (citations 17 omitted). Here, Defendants raise a facial attack. (Memorandum of Law in Support of Motion to 18 Dismiss, "MTD Memo.," at 8, ECF No. 15-1.)

19 Before filing a responsive pleading, a party "may move for a more definite statement of a 20 pleading . . . which is so vague or ambiguous that the party cannot reasonably prepare a response." 21 Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(e). A motion for a more definite statement "attacks the unintelligibility of the 22
23
24

1 complaint, not simply the mere lack of detail, and is only proper when a party is unable to determine 2 how to frame a response to the issues raised by the claimant.” Neveu v. City of Fresno, 392 F. Supp.
3 2d 1159, 1169 (E.D. Cal. 2005). Such motions “are viewed with disfavor and are rarely granted 4 because of the minimal pleading requirements of the Federal Rules.” Sagan v. Apple Computer, Inc., 5 874 F. Supp. 1072, 1077 (C.D. Cal. 1994). Those requirements are: “(1) a short and plain statement 6 of the grounds for the court's jurisdiction . . . ; (2) a short and plain statement of the claim showing 7 that the pleader is entitled to relief; and (3) a demand for the relief sought, which may include relief 8 in the alternative or different types of relief.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a).

9 V. DISCUSSION

10 A. Motion to Correct Misjoinder

11 The CNMI asserts that its Department of Corrections lacks the capacity to sue and be sued, 12 and that DOC therefore is not a proper party to this action. (MTD Memo. at 9–12) Invoking Rule 21 13 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, it asks the Court to drop DOC from the lawsuit and to add the 14 CNMI as a proper party defendant. (Id. at 12.)

15 “Misjoinder of parties is not a ground for dismissing an action. On motion or on its own, the 16 court may at any time, on just terms, add or drop a party.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 21. Capacity to sue or be 17 sued is determined “by the law of the state where the court is located[.]” Fed. R. Civ. P. 17(b)(3). The 18 Commonwealth maintains that only those government entities whose enabling legislation has 19 expressly granted them the right to sue and be sued enjoy that capacity. (MTD Memo. at 10.) The 20 Court agrees, having recently analyzed this issue in a different case involving a Commonwealth 21 department, Norita v. CNMI Department of Public Safety:
22
24

1 A waiver of sovereign immunity is no small act. It is fair to infer that the CNMI 2 legislature considered whether agencies should retain immunity when creating 3 them. Moreover, such a waiver must be unequivocal, either in express language 4 or “by such overwhelming implications from the text as [will] leave no room for 5 any other reasonable construction.” Ramsey v. Muna, 849 F.3d 858, 860–61 (9th 6 Cir. 2017) (quoting Edelman v. Jordan, 415 U.S. 651, 673 (1974)). The 7 Commonwealth Supreme Court also acknowledged a distinction between “sue 8 and be sued” agencies and those that are not “sue and be sued.” Marine 9 Revitalization Corporation v. Department of Land and Natural Resources 10 (Marine Revitalization II), 2011 MP 2 ¶ 17. Neither party has pointed to, nor has 11 this Court found, any instance in the Commonwealth Code in which an agency 12 is expressly denied the capacity to sue or be sued. If there are two distinct groups 13 of agencies, those with capacity and those without, it follows that legislative 14 silence was intended to mean an agency lacks the capacity to sue and be sued.

9 Decision and Order Substituting CNMI, No. 1:18-cv-00022, at 16 (Jan. 10, 2019, ECF No. 15).

10 Because CNMI law has not given DOC the capacity to sue and be sued, Manila cannot 11 prosecute an action against that department. The Court agrees with the CNMI that the proper party is 12 the Commonwealth, and so it will be added as a defendant and the caption will be amended 13 accordingly. (MTD Memo. at 9.)

14 B. Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction

15 The Commonwealth, now substituted for the Department of Corrections, asserts that it and the 16 official capacity defendants enjoy “sovereign immunity against suits for damages in federal court” and 17 must, therefore, be dismissed from this action. (Memo. at 14.) We first examine the extent of the 18 Commonwealth’s sovereign immunity generally, and then consider other factors bearing on whether 19 the Court has subject matter jurisdiction.

20 1. The Commonwealth’s Sovereign Immunity

21 Sovereign immunity is the immunity of a sovereign government or entity from being sued 22 without its consent. United States v. Oregon, 657 F.2d 1009, 1014 n.12 (9th Cir. 1981). It applies as 23

1 well when government officers are sued because of conduct that occurred while they were acting in 2 their official capacity, as such lawsuits “generally represent only another way of pleading an action 3 against an entity of which an officer is an agent.” Monell v. New York City Dept. of Social Services, 4 436 U.S. 658, 690, n.55 (1978). “As long as the government entity receives notice and an opportunity 5 to respond, an official-capacity suit is, in all respects other than name, to be treated as a suit against 6 the entity.” Kentucky v. Graham, 473 U.S. 159, 166 (1985). Official capacity defendants may assert 7 sovereign immunity, because in essence the government is being sued. Lewis v. Clarke, ___ U.S. ___, 8 137 S.Ct. 1285, 1291 (2017) (“In an official-capacity claim, the relief sought is only nominally against 9 the official and in fact is against the official’s office and thus the sovereign itself.”).

11 Because of sovereign immunity, “the Commonwealth may not be sued without its consent on 12 claims arising under its own laws.” Ramsey v. Muna, 849 F.3d 858, 861 (9th Cir. 2017). However, in 13 Fleming v. Department of Public Safety (1988), the Ninth Circuit held that the Commonwealth had 14 waived its sovereign immunity in federal court with respect to “suits in federal court arising under 15 federal law.” 837 F.2d 401, 407. The vitality of this holding, based on the determination that the 16 Eleventh Amendment of the Constitution does not apply in the Commonwealth, was confirmed as 17 recently as two years ago. See Ramsey, 849 F.3d at 859.

19 The Commonwealth acknowledges Fleming but asserts that it was incorrectly decided and that 20 “the law has now developed to the point where Fleming must be overturned.” (Memo. at 14–15.) It 21 points to intervening Supreme Court decisions, such as Alden v. Maine, 527 U.S. 706 (1999), and 22 Virginia Office for Protection and Advocacy v. Stewart, 563 U.S. 247 (2011), that recognize a source 23 of sovereign immunity independent of the Eleventh Amendment. This Court itself has questioned the 24

1 analysis in Fleming, in light of developments in sovereign immunity jurisprudence, but has refused to 2 depart from its holding. See Christian v. N. Mariana Islands, No. 1:14-cv-00010, 2015 WL 1943773
3 (D. N. Mar. I. Apr. 24, 2015). Fleming is a published, precedential decision of the Ninth Circuit.
4 Circuit precedent must be followed as long as it is not “clearly irreconcilable with the reasoning or 5 theory of intervening higher authority[.]” Miller v. Gammie, 335 F.3d 889, 893 (9th Cir. 2003). In 6 Norita v. Northern Mariana Islands, the Ninth Circuit examined the reasoning of Alden and 7 determined that it did not undermine Fleming. 331 F.3d 690, 696 (9th Cir. 2003) (“We have found no 8 closely-on-point intervening Supreme Court decision undermining Fleming’s holding that CNMI is 9 not entitled to an Eleventh Amendment defense [or] any Ninth Circuit authority questioning Fleming’s 10 further holding that the CNMI, at least be implication, waived any common law sovereign immunity 11 when it ratified the Covenant.”). Since Norita and Christian, there have been no new decisions from 12 the Supreme Court or from the Ninth Circuit sitting en banc that cannot be reconciled with Fleming.
13 Hence, this Court “may not reconsider Fleming and declare it overruled by implication.” Id. at 696– 14 97.

16 2. Other Factors Bearing on Subject Matter Jurisdiction

17 Although the Commonwealth does not enjoy sovereign immunity from suit in federal court on 18 federal claims, it is immune from suit on claims arising under Commonwealth law unless it expressly 19 waives immunity. Ramsey, 849 F.3d at 860–61. By statute, the CNMI has consented to be sued on 20 Commonwealth claims only in the Commonwealth’s own trial court, which is vested with “exclusive 21 original jurisdiction[.]” 7 CMC (N. Mar. I. Code) § 2251; see Ramsey, 849 F.2d at 861. In his Amended 22 Complaint, Manila does not state whether he brings his claims under Commonwealth law or federal 23

1 law (or both). This omission is not fatal, for in a complaint a plaintiff is “not required to state the 2 statutory or constitutional basis for his claim, only the facts underlying it.” McCalden v. California 3 Library Ass’n, 955 F.2d 1214, 1223 (9th Cir. 1990), superseded by rule on other grounds as stated in 4 Harmston v. City and Cty. of San Francisco, 627 F.3d 1273 (9th Cir. 2010). Still, any Commonwealth 5 civil rights claim that Manila might assert would have to be dismissed for lack of subject matter 6 jurisdiction.

7 Also, any federal civil rights claim for damages that Manila has under the Civil Rights Act of 8 1964 may not proceed against the Commonwealth or official capacity defendants. Only a “person” 9 can be “liable to the party injured” for a Civil Rights Act violation. 42 U.S.C. § 1983. States and state 10 officers acting within their official capacities are not “persons” within the meaning of § 1983. Will v.
11 Michigan Dept. of State Police, 491 U.S. 58, 71 (1989). The CNMI and its officers, when acting in 12 their official capacities, are likewise immune from suit for damages under § 1983. DeNieva v. Reyes, 13 966 F.2d 480, 483 (9th Cir. 1992).

15 In his handwritten Response, Manila stated: “I, (manila) bringing this action in their official 16 capacity under 42 U.S.C. 1983 and under the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States 17 Constitution.” (Response at 1.) Here, Manila appears to be responding to Defendant Cabrera’s request 18 for a more definite statement of the legal source of his claim and the capacity in which she is being 19 sued. He does not claim violation of any Commonwealth law, and none is apparent from the 20 allegations. In his Amended Complaint, as noted earlier, he made it clear he is seeking only damages, 21 not injunctive relief. Because the Commonwealth and any official capacity defendants are immune 22 from suit for damages under § 1983, the claim against them must be dismissed for lack of subject 23
24

1 matter jurisdiction.

2 With the Commonwealth and the DOC officials sued in their official capacities dismissed from 3 the lawsuit, there remains only the question whether the case continues against the officials in their 4 individual capacities. In his Response, Manila seems to be limiting the action against them to “their 5 official capacity.” (Response at 1.) However, if not for this explicit language, the Court would have to 6 assume Manila is suing the named officials in their individual capacities. “Where state officials are 7 named in a complaint which seeks damages under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, it is presumed that the officials 8 are being sued in their individual capacities. Any other construction would be illogical where the 9 complaint is silent as to capacity, since a claim for damages against state officials in their official 10 capacities is plainly barred.” Shoshone-Bannock Tribes v. Fish & Game Comm’n, Idaho, 42 F.3d 1278, 11 1284 (9th Cir. 1994). Manila was not represented by counsel at the time he filed his Response. He 12 may not have understood that just because the conduct occurred while the officials were on the job or 13 wearing a uniform does not necessarily mean that the lawsuit can only be maintained against them in 14 their official capacities. Furthermore, the fact that he has not requested injunctive relief, which would 15 be available against official capacity defendants, suggests a disconnect between the true nature of the 16 action and the legal terminology Manila has used. Ultimately, the capacity in which a defendant is 17 being sued arises not from formulaic phrases but from “the basis of the claims asserted and the nature 18 of the relief sought[.]” Central Reserve Life of N. America Ins. Co. v. Struve, 852 F.2d 1158, 1161 (9th 19 Cir. 1988). Here, the Amended Complaint clearly describes deliberate indifference to serious medical 20 needs, even if it doesn’t say so in so many words. The claim and relief sought equally and clearly 21 signal that the named officials are sought to be held personally liable for their actions.
24

1 For that reason, the Court will not dismiss Defendants Guerrero, Pangelinan, and Cabrera from 2 the lawsuit at this juncture. The Court will, however, grant Defendant Cabrera's motion for a more
3 definite statement and order Manila to file a second Amended Complaint supplying the missing 4 information. Sufficient information is already contained in the opening three paragraphs of the 5 Response, which in addition to capacity identifies a cause of action (§ 1983), Manila's place of 6 residence (CNMI DOC) and citizenship (Republic of the Philippines), source of federal jurisdiction 7 (28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1343(a)), and venue (28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)). All that Defendant Cabrera and 8 the Court need to know is whether Manila wishes to incorporate these assertions into his amended 9 pleadings, and if he really means to sue the named DOC officials only in their official capacities.

10 VI. CONCLUSION

11 Because the Department of Corrections lacks the capacity to sue or be sued, it is dismissed 12 from this action as a defendant and the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands is substituted 13 for it.

14 The Commonwealth is not immune from suit for damages in federal court. However, because 15 the Commonwealth enjoys immunity from suit for damages specifically under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, the 16 only claim on the face of the Amended Complaint, it is dismissed from this case. For the same reason, 17 Defendants Robert Guerrero, Jose Pangelinan, and Georgia Cabrera may not be sued in their official 18 capacities. However, they may be sued in their individual capacities.

19 WHEREFORE:

21 (1) The Commonwealth's Motion to Correct Misjoinder is GRANTED. The Clerk is directed 22 to substitute the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands for the CNMI 23
24

Department of Corrections in the caption.

1
2 (2) The Commonwealth's Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction is 3 GRANTED. The CNMI and Defendants Guerrero, Pangelinan, and Cabrera in their official 4 capacities are dismissed from this action. Because amendment would be futile, the 5 dismissal is with prejudice.

6 (3) Defendant Cabrera's Motion for a More Definite Statement is GRANTED. Plaintiff Manila 7 must file a Second Amended Complaint no later than February 21, 2019, supplying the 8 information previously described. A Second Amended Complaint placed in outgoing 9 prison mail by February 21, 2019, will be considered timely filed even if the Clerk receives 10 it after that date.

11 IT IS SO ORDERED this 24th day of January, 2019.
